There are no "Air Holes" when you use ROYAL

TATE WISH we could offer VV you a piece of this cake!

Then you could see for yourself its fine, even grain taste the exquisite flavor.

This isn't just a happy baking accident. No. indeed!

The cook knew that the right baking powder often spells the difference between a good cake and a poor one.

So she chose Royal — just ns good cooks have been doing for over 60 years. She knew that if she used a cheap, inferior baking powder, there would be ugly "nir holes" in the finished cake, and that the natural moisture would escape through them. In a few days, her cake would be dry. tasteless and stale. The last pieces would be thrown away.

Now isn't it real economy always to use Royal, so that your cake will be good not only when freshly baked. but five days later?

without deviating one hair breadth and has, confidence in himself to curb tyranny and misgovernment within and aggression from without. So far this sounds good in print, but action is , what the nation needs. If Mr. Hu Han-min has ideals that would tend to the betterment of his country, let him remember that he will have the support of the Chinese people.

General Chiang Kni-shek and Wang Ching-wei are being classified as traitors by the South-west clique, and yet both have manly stepped forwarded to render assistance to a shattered China, torn the more asunder by political oppositions of a worthices nature. Whatever criticisms are laid against both these leaders, the nation is thankful that they had wisely managed her affairs in the most critical period of her history.

General Chiang Rai-shek's Toreign policy is sound, and in no way can we say that he is work ing for his own interest or tha he is the catspaw to Japan's ambition. The futility of fighting said that he was returning to against Japan is realized by every Tsingtao shortly to recuperate. against Japan is realized by every one, Chinese or foreign, and to He had not yet decided when he throw the bulk of China's untrain- was returning to Moscow. Japan had her eyes on Manchuria even long before the KULING TALKS NOT Chinese Republic was born, and she saw her chance of carrying out her long cherished plan of conquest at a time when the other powers were fighting hard against their very own existence. Millions of dolfars which should! buying of arms to be used against among the leaders, he claims. people of the same kin and blood under the disguise of patriotism. In spite of his sagaciousness, his keen sense of patriotism, Mr. Hu Han-min, who was one of the nation's chief executives then, ould achieve nothing to gave China from the horrors of civil wars. What chances has he then against foreign aggression? What perform to save China from ambition of a powerful neighbour which pursued her policy of a colonial- empire without deviating one hairbreadth? "Recover lost territory" is the slogan of the South-west political party. But how? Mr. Hu Han-min and his party advocate a fight to the last policy. This means auicide. If Mr. Hu Han-min could be prevailed upon to talk Japan into the surrender of Manchuria he would earn the gratitude of the Chinese people. The using of force is entirely out of the question.

What China needs is a united front, unity among her leaders. If that is achieved it would be a blessing to China. Can any political difference be so great that it could not be consolidated?

Mr. Hu Han-min has long been connected with the affairs of China to be blind to her needs. To live as a recluse in Hong Kong after serving his country for 80 many years with distinction is lamentable. With the years which we pray God will spare him, the nation looks forward to his last efforts to strive for a united China. L. C. E.
